Dear Bright Network team,

I am writing to apply for the job of Frontend Engineer. My name is Yasha Duncan-Wilson, and I'm a self-taught developer with significant experience of React, vanilla JS, and HTML/CSS. While I have no formal experience, I have undertaken several projects for clients in the past with success.

Currently, I am indefinitely postponing my studies at Heriot-Watt university for medical reasons, and hope to instead build upon my experience by finding a long-term position where my willingness to learn new technologies and operate in a hands-off role fits and compliments the existing team. I have previously been described as 'self-motivated' and 'a results-focused individual' and am equally comfortable working as part of a team or independently.

My experience of building projects in React makes me an excellent candidate for this role - I have previously undertaken freelance work which has required tailoring user interfaces to exactly match tooling and documents in other formats, allowing me to utilise my strong attention to detail and keen eye for UI/UX consistency. While I don't have formal experience of all the technologies mentioned in the listing, I have a proven track record of learning new technology and upskilling quickly. I hope that this indicated that I could be a real asset to the team at Bright Network.

Thank you for your time and consideration,
Yasha Duncan-Wilson
